NOTRE DAME CATHEDRAL - PARIS

Notre Dame is a medieval catholic cathedral on an island in the Seine river in Paris France. Construction began in 1163 and was largely completed in 1260. Although it had undergone extensive work and construction over the ensuing centuries. The architecture style is French Gothic.

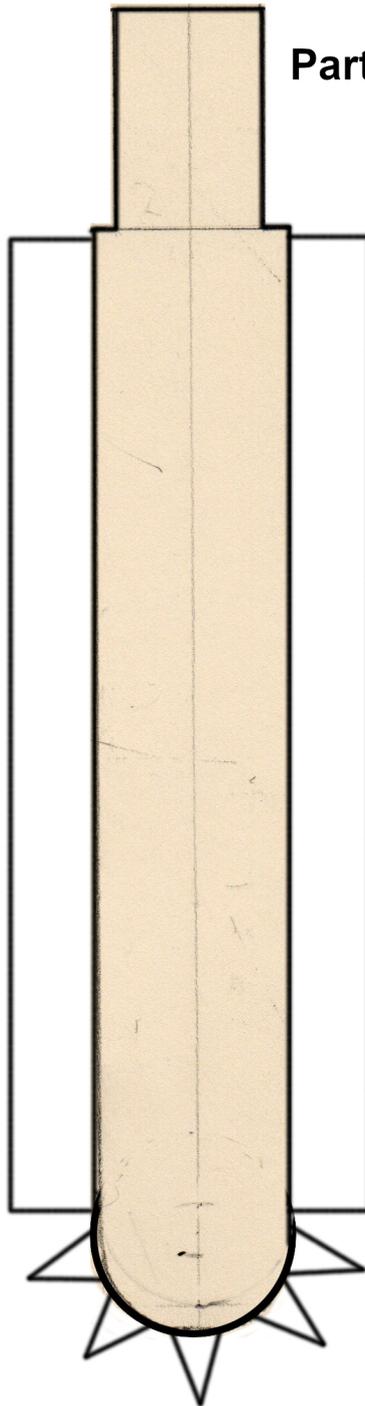

It has a very long and interesting history which includes being the location where Napoleon crowned himself emperor in 1804. In the decades following this it fell into disrepair. And the novel "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" inspired awareness of the cathedral which led to restoration from 1844 to 1864.

In 2019 it suffered serious damage from a fire and was fully restored and reopened in 2024.
